

The world is a classroom

Investigating mock kidnappings and fictional races across the world are part of a typical lesson plan for Northside Christian College teacher Angela Eynaud, pictured with students Anna Isaac and Isaac Young (front) and Macaire O Farrell, Jarren Morris and Douglas Mahi. Her offbeat approach has earned her a nomination in the National Excellence In Teaching Awards. She is now eligible for a National Australian Scholarships Group Inspirational Teaching award and grant. A teacher for 24 years, Eynaud engages students through popular culture. "I draw a lot on youth culture, music, movies and things they're watching on television," she says.
